The Middle East is complicated. The proposed boycott is a simplistic inappropriate response. The heated rhetoric of the proponents causes collateral damage by fueling anti- semitism. To be clear, I am not saying that the proponents are anti-semitic. The reality is that a big part of American culture demeans anyone who is not a white Christian and the proponents argue their position as if this reality did not exist. Racism, xenaphobia and anti-Semitism are on the rise. We must guard against increasing this trajectory even when that is not the intent of a particular proposal.
